Richardson for Governor

Why should not the $50,000,000 business of the State of California be placed in charge of a business executive who has shown his mettle in the marked success with which he has handled business in the past? A doctor or a lawyer or an artist is all very well in his own field, but his profession is no guarantee that he is the person best qualified to manage the State of California.

Neither is the fact that a man is a business man any sure guarantee of the same thing. It is not necessary to depend upon probability. No man can reach the stature of fitness to be a governor until he has proven his worth. A business man who has proven himself by years of trial would be the natural material to make a good governor. F.W. Richardson has had the kind of all around business experience to give him breadth. He has built up, managed and edited newspapers. He has run the state printing office efficiently and he has for eight years been state treasurer, with conspicuous success. He is a clean, able and reliable man.

"There is but one string to my bow and that is economy," Mr. Richardson says. "I have preached the doctrine of economy in state government for six years and I am going before the people pledging myself to stop the leaks in the administration of the people's taxes."

We have had so much social and political progress in the past that now we think we should have a business and economical progres in our state affairs. We do not want a lawyer and a politician. Though he talks progress, has he ever made any progress except when he had the power of the state behind him? In some cases his progress has seemed for political and personal ambition. In Friend W. Richardson we have a home man, a business man, a man of experience, and he says he will give the people of California an economical administration. Take your choice—a real man of affairs, or a politician and lawyer who is ambitious—which? We say vote for Richardson and then you vote for the real progress and you will get results not flowery language.

Placer county has seven newspapers, three Democratic and four Republican, and all are suporting Friend W. Richardson for governor at the coming election. The democratic papers are Auburn Herald, Roseville Register, Lincoln News and Messenger. The republican papers are Auburn Journal, Roseville Tribune, Colfax Record and Loomis Recorder.

The state machine and its bosses appear to be against Mr. Richardson's candidacy, which leaves him nothing but the people to fall back upon. The people are with him practically solidly, however.

SHIP CO.'S GRANTED INJUNCTION IN CASE

U. S. MARSHALS RAID JOINTS

Passengers and Men From Blazing Vessel Bound for U. S.

ORDER ISSUED RESTRAINING SHIP RULING

Washington, Oct. 13.—The federal restraining order issued to prevent prohibition agents from interfering with liquor aboard vessels of the shipping board, will affect the holding up of enforcement of Attorney General Daugherty's latest bone dry ruling at all American ports, it was declared today by J. J. Britt, chief counsel to Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

Although the temporary injunction issued by Federal Judge Hand applies only to the jurisdiction of New York, restraining the customs office at the port of New York and the prohibition officials in that territory from warring against ships which bring liquor within the three mile limit, Britt said that the order would apply constructively to the entire country.

President J. F. Hulaniski assured those present that dividends would commence when the new mill got busy next spring, and would never stop.

A unanimous rising vote of thanks to and confidence in the management was given.

Elks Busy on Charity Circus

A. A. Alstrom, Financial Secretary of Richmond Lodge 1251 B. P. O. E.

These are busy days for the Richmond Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Every member of the Lodge is working like the proverbial beaver in the interest of the great Elks Charity Circus and Industrial Exposition, to be staged under large circus tents in Richmond California, from November 6 to 11 inclusive. Nothing, they declare, will be left undone to give Richmond the finest entertainment of this kind in the history of the city.

The Elks have secured an early start, but the time is none too long they say, in which to round out the many novel features of a stupendous program. The decorations in the big tent are to be the last work in all that constitutes Oriental beauty and for six nights there will be something doing every second of the time.

All funds derived from the huge entertainment will go to the charity fund. Committee headquarters have been established at the Chamber of Commerce in the Elks Building on Tenth street, between Macdonald and Nevin avenues, where today everything is a bee hive of activity. Here all the preliminaries for the big show are being arranged, genuine circus acts are being booked, vaudeviel stunts billed and scores of novel features prepared.

Band and orchestra music will be provided, there will be parades, concert and revues. A real circus atmosphere is to prevail all during the six nights of gaiety. There will be free dancing, coronation of a queen, and special events too numerous to mention.

Season tickets will be on sale the last of the week and much interest is being manifested in the big queen contest which opens on October 25, and closes November 8. A baby contest is attracting almost equal attention. Beautiful prizes will be given to the winners in both contests and patrons of the show are to participate in the distribution of special prizes including two automobiles, one an Essex coach, and the other a five-passenger Overland.

The Richmond lodge of Elks have in past years, conducted numerous entertainments with a genuine wallop. It is now their intention to make all past performances fade into insignificance as compared with the big Elks Charity Circus and Industrial Exposition next month.

They expect to give the amusement lovers of Richmond the time of their lives.

All Passengers of Ill Fated Steamer on Way to S.F. in Army Transport

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—The United States Army transport Thomas, carrying all but one of the 261 victims of the City of Honolulu steamship disaster, left the scene of yesterday's tragedy shortly before 8 o'clock this morning and is steaming for San Francisco.

It is estimated that the big transport will warp into her berth at dock 1, at the foot of Laguna street, between 9 o'clock and noon-time on Sunday. Special arrangements are being made by the transport officials to protect the refugees from the rush of the curious.

The one victim of the disaster who is not on board the Thomas is reported in Associate Press dispatches by radio to be Douglas Togan, a steward, who failed to appear this morning when the passengers, officers and crew were transferred from the freighter West Faralon. He is on the freight ship, now resuming its outbound voyage to Dutch East Indian ports.

The transferring of refugees began at dawn and was completed in about two hours. Immediately after the army transport steamed for San Francisco.

The discrepancy between the new figures of 261, reported from the Thomas, and the figure of 217 reported by the Los Aneles Steamship Company, is explained by President Fred L. Baker of the company, who says some thirty members of the crew failed to sign the ship's articles to departure from Los Angeles.

SIXTY ATTEND SMOKER-FEED

The first of a series of monthly smokers and dinners was given by the members of the Contra Costa Builders Exchange last evening. The affair was attended by a large percentage of the members about sixty being present. From now on one Friday night a month will be set aside for the big smoker and banquet. In the event of the unavoidable tardiness of the president of the exchange, P. M. Sanford, Treasurer E. H. Higgins presided. The evening was opened with a short business session after which the dinner was served.

The principal speakers of the evening were P. M. Sanford, E. M. Tilden, Grant Miner, Sr., Charles Brown and others. During the evening all those present joined in community singing which was much enjoyed.

Among the points touched upon by the speakers was the fact that the county, and more particularly Richmond, was enjoying at the present time the same steady growth that has been characteristic of its advancement from the days of its incarnation when there was but a single ranch house to mark the spot where greater Richmond now stands.

It was also pointed out by the different speakers that building activities here are as good or better than any place around the bay. A number of local contractors who are now at work on out of town jobs stated that local contractors who are now at work on out of town jobs stated that materials here were cheaper than any other place in the state. This fact augurs well for the continuation of activities along the building line throughout the winter months, it is said. There is a particularly large number of apartment houses and flats under construction at the present time.

Many of the sixty members present expressed their desire to have the smokers held regularly and all seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves.

The committee on arrangements for last night's affair consisted of E. H. Higgins and B. J. Bellantyne.

Doctors Are Issuing Coal Prescription

Chicago, Oct. 13.—With early hints of winter before the coal shortage is relieved, Chicago physicians have found a new case for their prescription pens according to Marshall, in charge of purchases and sales of one of the city's largest coal companies.

The same pens that have authorized internal warmth since the name "Volstead" became famous, are now writing prescriptions for coal, Keig said. He exhibited a large batch of vari-colored slips, all urging that certain consumers, because of illness or other emergencies, be preferred in coal distribution.

At the Hoffman place it is said that liquor was found and Sam Hoffman and John Lake were arrested.

The raid of the Martinez hotel was made, as the result of liquor purchased at the place on October 4th, it is said. Here J. A. Butler and J. H. Meyers, both employes of the place were arrested.

At a late hour, none of those arrested had succeeded in raising bail.

TUNNEL ROAD TO BE REOPENED

Announcement is made that the tunnel on the highway between Oakland and Lafayette will be opened for light traffic at 5 o'clock this afternoon. County Surveyor R. R. Arnold has been busy for the past several days in directing the work of clearing out the debris that filled the tunnel as a result of the cave-in last Wednesday. All heavy trucks and other heavy vehicles will be barred from the tunnel for some time, it was announced yesterday.

With the tunnel open for traffic again, plans are being rushed to completion for the celebration to be held tomorrow to mark the opening of the Moraga road. The closing of the tunnel would necessitate the motorists from the bay cities using the circuitous route by way of Martinez.

The parade will start from Martinez at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, and will proceed to Moraga where a barbecue and celebration will be held. Sheriff R. R. Veale will head the parade.

Sulphur as a Fertilizer

Many experiments have recently made in regard to the value of sulphur as a fertilizer. The results have shown such a wide variation that the matter is still in a state of much uncertainty. Recently several sulphur producing companies have made generous grants of money to be used for more exhaustive studies to be made at the New Jersey and New York experiment stations. We in California are also interested in the beneficial effect of sulphur on lakali, and the use of sulphur in connection with nematodes and potato scab.

"More business and less politics. When I become governor I will throw out the political wrecking gang and put a construction crew on the job."—Statement of Friend William Richardson, who has just been nominated by the Republicans for Governor of California.

WHAT IS NEWSPAPER NEWS TODAY?

Metropolitan newspapers joke about the country press which chronicles such events as the painting of Silas Jones' fence and the sale of Miranda Brown's prize rooster; but may not the tables be turned when a leading journal in a city of a million population bases its most prominent story of the day on the invasion of someone's lawn by a stray cow?

Of course cows are strange animals in the big city; and it is the element of strangeness that makes news features for the live daily.

The definition of news as expressed by a famous New York editor will remain the guide in all enterprising publishing offices dealing with the affairs and the chatter of a typical American community, large or small.

If a dog bites a man the circumstance is not worthy of notation in up-to-date newspaper columns. The thing happens so often that it is not news. But if a man bites a dog this becomes the basis for an illustrated narrative, giving all possible details of the rare occurence.

Newspaper making has undergone a notable evolution since the days when these publications were chiefly mediums for personal opinion on political subjects, and when reports of public meetings were made in the form of a secretary's minutes.

Nevertheless, from dry routine and ponderous utterance to light gossip and comic supplements is a far cry in journalism; so far, in fact, that there would be danger of degeneration except for the sobering influence of public sentiment.

Events that concern public welfare should form the backbone of newspaper news. Necessarily these relate to national, state, county and local government affairs. Foreign correspondence is also an important factor.

Such agencies as the churches, the schools, civic and business clubs, the theaters, in that they are intimately related to the people and their progress, canot be neglected.

Industrial, financial, commercial happenings interst a large element of the population; and by way of contrast it may be said that the sporting pages havetheir clientele often from the same ranks that peruse the marke columns.

The modern newspaper should not be other than fair and temperate in its editorial comment.

No newspaper of the day is complete without its well selected miscellany, its stories and its pictures. In a word, it must be more than a purveyor of public records.

There is abundance of money in United States seeking sound investment, as is evidenced by the huge oversubscription of federal government bonds offered to take up portions of world war bond issues. This nation is rich almost beyond computation.

LOWER TAXATION NEED OF THE TIMES

Relief from heavy taxation is sorely needed here, there and everywhere. The world war entailed a burden upon this and other countries that, at best, is heavy and irksome. All the more reason why extreme care should be exercised in making up municipal, county, state and national budgets, to keep governmental expenses down to the lowest limit compatible with sound and efficient administration of governmental affairs.

The public moneys should not be wasted. There should be no extravagance, no mismanagement, in outlay of the people's money. Every dollar withdrawn from the people in taxes should be handled with scrupulous honesty and with extreme business care and judgment. The people should demand this, and keep on demanding and enforcing their demands. Relief must come from the rigorous "Thou shalt!" of the people, hurled at those who are delegated by the pople to exercise governmental authority—"Thou shalt" be economical and prudent in expenditures; "thou shalt not" waste or indulge in extravagance with public funds.

AMERICA IS INVESTING ABROAD

Spirited denial is made, by high officials at Washington, that the United States is parsimonious in withholding money from Europe. Investments totaling billions of dollors have been made in Europe by Americans since the world war, and this with the sanction and encouragement of the United States government. These vast sums have been invested in peace projects, for the rehabilitation of Europe and for the development of peaceful industry there.

The American government would discountenance only one form of investment or loan of American money—that is, a loan to any European power to foster militarism and unwarranted preparations for unnecessary war. This country would not put itself in the position of encouraging militarism by providing it with financial sinews. But in all projects of peace and orderly development abroad, American money is free to invest.

During this period of industrial peace, forces and influences should be at work to bring labor and capital into more harmonious relations. Every effort should be put forth by friends of labor and capital to devise satisfactory, equitable ways and means of settling industrial dsputes without resorting to such extremes as strikes or lockouts.

Building of good roads is an excellent investment. Permanently improved highways have been and are of almost inestimable value to California. This state cannot have too many miles of bettered highways.

STAR CHAPTER RECEPTION HERE

Acantha Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, entertained last evening in Masonic hall with a reception in honor of the Eastbay Conductresses and Associate Conductresses. Following a short business session presided over by Worthy Matron Marietta W. Duncan, the following program was given:

Following the program, the assemblage repaired to the banquet room, where an elaborate feast was enjoyed. The banquet committee was formed of Mrs. D. A. Newcomb and Mrs. C. Alexander.

The Valley of Silent Men Is at the T. & D.
The mystery of a man found strangled with a twisted strand of woman's hair is the motive of "The Valley of Silent Men," a Cosmopolitan picturization of the story by Jas. Oliver Curwood, which is at the Richmond T. & D. theater today. The scenes are laid in the Canadian Rockies, around Lake Louise, and there the Cosmopolitan company headed by Alma Rubens and under the direction of Frank Borzage, spent twelve weeks filming the picture.
Lew Cody plays the part of a corporal in the Royal Mounted Police and together with Miss Rubens faced the perils of snowslides and accidents in the mountains as well as the dangerous glaciers above Lake Louise and the icy waters of the Kepawa river, which they were compelled to swim.
George Nash, Mario Majeroni, Joe King and J. W. Johnston appear prominently in support of Miss Rubens and Mr. Cody, while Chief Powderface, of the Sarcee tribe of Alberta Indians, takes an active part in the development of the story.

GOOD CARD SCHEDULED FOR COURSING MEETING AT SAN PABLO TOMORROW

Thirty-six greyhounds have been drawn for the three coursing stakes that will be run down by the Central California Coursing Club at San Pablo tomorrow. This is the most representative field that has competed here for some time, as the dogs are from Los Angeles, Vallejo, Oakland, San Francisco and Sacramento, as well as from other places.

The Champion stake, the main event of the day, promises to provide plenty of thrills, as the greyhounds are all evenly matched. In fact, many of the coursing followers are of the opinion that the events are a fifty-fifty proposition. Gerald Brown's Master Mind meets Blended Bourbon in the first round, while the imported English dog, Raby Ruler, will have Clean Sweep as an opponent in the same stake.

RICHMOND HIGH ELEVEN WILL PLAY OAKLAND HIGH THIS MORNING

The local football fans should be treated to fast exhibition this morning when the Richmond High school football team clashes with the Oaklang High eleven. This will be the second appearance here of the local gridders, they having opened the season at Nichol Field last week by defeating the strong Polytechnic high team of San Francisco.

The Oakland eleven is rated as being as strong as the Poly team, and the local players will doubtless have to play their best football to win With Captain Gay Vargas and Al Rowe out of today's game, the Blue and Red eleven will be without its full strength, but Coach Hill hopes to present a line-up powerful enough to defeat the Blue and White grid warriors.

The game will start at 10:30 o'clock and arrangements have been made to handle a large crowd at the local field.

MIRA VISTA RESIDENTS LEAVE ON DUCK HUNTING TRIP TO RICE FIELDS

Fred H. Canning and George F Brooks, both of Mira Vista, have departed on a week-end duck hunting trip to Colusa.

Tom Mix Seems to Love Wild Autos

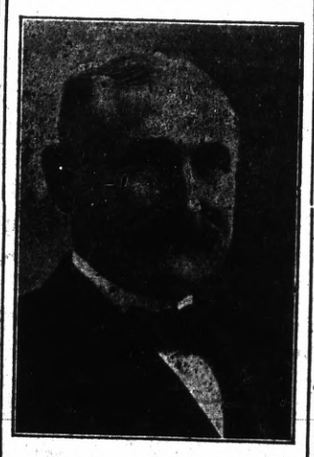

Tom Mix seems to have come to love thrills in a motor car as much as he loves them in the saddle. In his latest William Fox picture "Chasing the Moon," being shown at the Macdonald theater today, he has rare sport driving one car over an embankment along the Californian roads at about ninety miles an hour and giving us a glimpse of a magnificent car that must have cost over ten thousand dollars. It's come grand affair.

IS VISITOR HERE

Father Butler, of San Francisco, formerly assistant pastor of St. Mark's Catholic church here, has been visiting Richmond friends for the past several days.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Answering an advertisement calling for a young man willing to engage in service of danger, Matthew West, ex-service man just returned from France, where he had been captain of engineers, meets Natalie Coolidge, writer of the advertisement, and without being instructed as to his probable duties, is engaged by her, and that same evening introduced to her friends as her fiance.

CHAPTER II.—That night, in the Coolidge home, West is startled by the appearance in the room of a young woman, whom he takes to be Natalie, but who escapes before he can be sure. Next morning Natalie tells West she has been troubled by some woman, apparently her double, who has been impersonating her.

CHAPTER III.—Percival Coolidge, Natalie's uncle and guardian, apparently is disgruntled by West's appearance as Natalie's fiance, and the feeling of antagonism is mutual. Natalie, Coolidge, and West plan a visit of charity to a poor and remote section of the city.

CHAPTER IV.—Leaving West in the car, Natalie and Coolidge enter a small cottage, remaining a length of time which causes him some uneasiness. Before they return, West secures information which leads him to believe Coolidge is deceiving Natalie, and has ulterior motives.

CHAPTER V.—On the party's return to the Coolidge home, Natalie informs West she has been mistaken in her suspicions concerning her "double," and that she has no further need for his services. West is astounded, but helpless. He leaves.

CHAPTER VI.—On his way out of the grounds, West hears a revolver shot, and investigates. He finds Percival Coolidge dead, apparently a suicide. The inquest so determines. In the city West is visited by Sexton, an old servant of the Coolidges. Sexton tells him he has been abruptly dismissed, for no apparent reason. He gives it as his belief that Coolidge was murdered, and about convinces West he is right.

CHAPTER VII.—Sexton has overheard a telephone conversation in the Coolidge home, in which a man demands Natalie's presence immediately. He gives an address, and with Sexton, West, his suspicions of things not being right strengthened by him learning that Coolidge had lied about the reason for the trip to the cottage, visits the place. It is a disreputable saloon.

CHAPTER VIII.—West is taken by surprise, knocked out, separated from Sexton, and comes to his senses to find himself bound and helpless, and confronted by a man named Hobart, whom West knows to be the man who had rented the house which Natalie visited. The man tells him he (West) is interfering with his plans and if he persists will be done away with. West refuses any compromise. Hobart sends for Natalie, hoping she can induce West to give up his quest.

CHAPTER IX.—Natalie releases West from his bonds and assures him that she has no need for his assistance. Her actions almost convince West she has guilty knowledge of Percival Coolidge's murder. He defies Hobart, and the thug, with two companions, attempts to kill him. After a terrific fight West leaps from the window.

CHAPTER X

Under Cover.

A shed roof was below, and he struck it, fortunately feet first, but the sharp slant of the boards sent him hurtling forward over the edge into a miscellaneous pile of boxes beneath, his body finally resting on the hard ground. He lay there dazed, the breath knocked entirely out of him, bruised, and scarcely certain whether he was dead or alive. For the moment, he seemed to have lost all consciousness, unable to realize even what had occurred in that upper room, or to comprehend the necessity of immediate flight. All about him was intense darkness, and, after the crash of his fall, no sound broke the silence. He could see nothing, hear nothing to arouse his faculties; his flesh quivered with pain, although he felt sure no bones were fractured, for he could move both arms and legs freely, while after the first shock, his mind returned to activity, dominated by the single conviction that he must get away from there before those men could get down stairs.

He endeavored to rise, rolling partially over in the effort, which failed, but the movement, slight as it was, left one hand dangling over an excavation at his right. His fingers explored the edge of this opening cautiously, revealing a cellar-way leading down into the basement. The opening was black, silent, mysterious, yet it was a hiding place. If he could manage to roll down those steps into those depths below, he might hide there unseen, until he regained strength, until the first effort at pursuit had been abandoned. Then there might be a chance for escape.

West grasped the idea clearly enough. Those fellows would be there swiftly. If they found him gone they would have no doubt but what he landed safely, and had made a getaway. They would search, of course, perhaps out into the alley, hoping he might have been injured, but it was hardly probable they would think to explore the cellar. Even if they did, he could surely creep into some dark corner where he might escape observation. Anyway, crippled as he was, this offered the one and only chance. He could not argue and debate; he must act.

He rolled over, and lowered himself down into the opening, locating the half-dozen broken and rotted steps with his feet. He made no attempt to stand, but simply slid down, finding a partially closed door at the bottom, the passage-way blocked by a litter, the exact nature of which could not be determined in the darkness. With some difficulty, and more than ever conscious of his weakness, and the pain of bruises, he managed to crawl over this pile of debris, and crouch down finally in the intense blackness within. He felt like a trapped rat, still gasping for breath, his body quivering from exertion.

Yet his retreat had been none too rapid. The silence above was broken by the creak of an opening door, the sound of excited voices, and a sudden gleam of light finding entrance through the open cellar-way. West, startled, crept back into a corner, every nerve alert at approaching peril.

He Recognized Hobart's Voice.

He recognized Hobart's voice, as the fellow plunged down the steps from the first floor out into the yard.

"To h—l, of course he's here!" he stormed. "My G—d, man, he dived out head first; I saw him. He'll be dead as a door nail now. Come on with that lantern, Turner. Where in thunder is the ladder—does any one know?"

"You think he lies on the roof?"

"Why not? That's where he must have struck, ain't it, Shorty? I don't know, though; it is so steep he'd most likely roll off. Here, you, let me take that glim. There's nothing here in these boxes. Ah, there's the ladder; climb up, Shorty, and see if the guy is stuck anywhere on the roof. Go on! What are you afraid of; if he's there, he's a stiff all right, believe me."

Turner's voice, hoarse and rumbling, came back from above.

"There ain't nothin' up here, Jim. D—n me, if I don't believe the cuss got clean away. Gee, but he was sure a nervy guy, all right."

"Nervy? Crazy, you mean. But he never took that fall without busting something. The bird is lying about here somewhere. You make sure he ain't up there, Shorty."

"Well, he ain't; I kin see every inch o' this roof. Perhaps he fell in between them barrels down there."

The two evidently searched thoroughly, the rays of the lantern dancing wildly about, while Hobart savagedly cursed his companion, and reiterated his belief that no man could take that plunge, and escape unhurt.

"It couldn't be done, I tell you; maybe he could crawl, but that would be all. Why he went down head first; I saw him go out the window, and that drop would daze a cat. Say, Shorty, maybe the stiff dropped down into this cellar-way. Let's take a look."

Man Loses Auto When Garage Burns

"John, I noticed an article in yesterday's paper which stated that your car was destroyed in that fire yesterday. How did the place catch fire, anyway?"

"Yes, the old bus burned up before we could get her out. The chief found the remains of a still which had been in use perhaps at the time the fire started. One of the on-lookers lived in one of the shacks which were destroyed and as he was in a drunken condition it is supposed that he was operating the still and that it exploded, setting fire to the shanty and in a jiffy the whole block of wooden buildings was in flames."

"To bad, John. But I supposed you had your car insured."

"No, not a cent of insurance did I have. I kept neglecting to take out a policy. That's the trouble. Now, I don't know how I am ever going to get along without a car. If I buy a new one I won't be able to get any winter clothes or anything else."

"That surely is hard luck. But I'll tell you where to get your clothes. Go the Cherry's at 528 Thirteenth street and buy on credit. They have a full stock of the latest and best clothing, and the beauty of it is they allow one six months to pay."

Cherry's store for women is at 515 Thirteenth street.—Advertisement.

Competition--

The Public's Right

Restored!

An Announcement

The Central Pacific Railway Lines are to be separated from the stock ownership and operating control of the Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky, in accordance with the mandate of the United States Supreme Court of May 29, 1922. The Supreme Court's decision now go to the United States District Court of Utah, where the details of the separation of the two properties will be formulated.

The Court's decision means the beginning of an era of active railway competition in California. This, in turn, means the opening of a period of intensive development, of growth in population and production, never before known in this State.

The Union Pacific has consistently stated that its primary interest is an independent Central Pacific for its connection at Ogden, free and untrammeled, so that it can co-operate with the Union Pacific in providing a high grade of transportation service and aid in the development of this territory. Such co-operation will insure a transcontinental route eastward through Ogden which will provide active competition with all other transcontinental routes.

The Union Pacific purposes henceforth to develop its legitimate interests in California. It confidently relies upon the justness and fair-mindedness of the citizens of this State. It asks for nothing more.

In the view of those sincerely interested in the upbuilding of California, the Supreme Court's decision is a great public victory. Transportation facilities will be increased. There can be no deterioration of those facilities.

The Supreme Court has safeguarded the public interest by providing that THERE WILL BE NO DISRUPTION OF EXISTING TRAFFIC ROUTES AND SERVICE.

The basis for rates into and out of California will remain unchanged. On business between the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific in California, the one-line basis for computing rates should be continued. The Union Pacific, if it should come into control of the Central Pacific, commits itself in advance to this policy.

There will be no non-essential duplication of facilities. But there will be legitimate and timely expansion of facilities to meet the ever-increasing public demand.

Findings of the U. S. Supreme Court As to Facts and the Law

These two great systems are normally competitive for the carrying trade in some parts from the east and middle west to the coast, and for the traffic moving to and from central and northern California, including a great volume of ocean-borne traffic which lands on the coast destined across the continent to the Atlantic seaboard and intermediate western and eastern points, or is destined from the latter points to foreign ports via San Francisco or other Pacific Coast points.

* * * combinations, not the result of normal and natural growth and development, but springing from the formation of holding companies, or stock purchases, resulting in the unified control of different roads or systems, naturally competitive, constitute "a menace and a restraint upon that freedom of commerce which Congress intended to recognize and protect and which the public is entitled to have protected."

* * * one system of railroad transportation cannot acquire another, nor a substantial and vital part thereof, when the effect of such acquisition is to suppress, or materially reduce the free and normal flow of competition in the channels of interstate trade.

In the instant case we are not dealing with any principle in the abstract. The proof is simple that the policy of the Southern Pacific system has been to divert transportation on its line by securing for itself, where ever practicable, the carriage of freight which would normally move eastward or westward over the shorter line of the Central Pacific Railroad and its connections, for its own much longer and wholly owned southern route.

The Court's Mandate

We direct that a decree be entered severing the control by the Southern Pacific of the Central Pacific by stock ownership or by lease. But, in accomplishing this purpose, so far as compatible therewith, the mortgage lien asserted in the brief filed for the Central Union Trust Company shall be protected.

In addition, the several terminal lines and cutoffs leading to San Francisco Bay which have been constructed or acquired during the unified control of the two systems for the purpose of affording direct or convenient access to the Bay and to the principal terminal facilities about the Bay should be dealt with, either by way of apportionment or by provisions for joint or common use, in such manner as will secure to both companies such full, convenient and ready access to the Bay and to terminal facilities thereon that each company will be able freely to compete with the other, to serve the public efficiently, and to accomplish the purpose of the legislation under which it was constructed. And a like course should be pursued in dealing with the lines extending from San Francisco Bay to Sacramento and to Portland, Oregon.

Standard Service

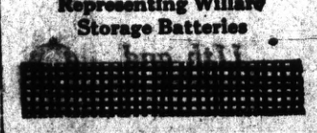

With our experience and equipment we have a notion that we could work out a pretty fair sort of battery service without much help.

But we also have an idea that it wouldn't measure up to the brand of service developed for our use by the Willard Storage Battery Company.

As Battery Headquarters we have the benefit of their years of experience, and of the definite national standards of service they have been able to develop as a result.

Come in! No matter what make of battery you happen to have it needs the sort of attention provided by the Willard Standard of Service.

VEALE'S ANTIOCH FRIENDS IN MEETING

The Antioch friends of Sheriff Veale held a rally in that city last Wednesday evening which overflowed the assembly room of the City Hall and the standing room only sign was up.

Enthusiasm ran high, and the "Ledger" of that city tells the story. Here it is:

"Last evening at the City Hall the first political gun was fired in this community for the re-election of Sheriff R. R. Veale. The assembly room in the city hall was taxed beyond limit and standing room was occupied by the later ocmers.

"The situation was discussed, plans were laid and machinery has been set in motion for a record-breaking vote in favor of the incumbent. Friends of Veale are awakening to the situation that exists and are determined to go out and answer the falsehoods that are being circulated; falsehoods of a trip to Australia at the expense of the county and such

"It has appeared ridiculous to many people that any one would put faith in the statements that are being made, but nevertheless, there are those who are conscientiously believing and further, spreading the gospel of the mis-truths. These people are to be located and the truth laid before them.

"An executive committee will be appointed within a few days and a systematic campaign will be waged. Another meeting will be held Wednesday night of next week, when organization will be completed and the program of work will be adopted. In this program every Veale supporter will be included. The executive committee will, of course, shoulder the bulk of the work, but the other members of the Veale club will have every opportunity to prove their interest in the success of the campaign. Pledges of support were received last night and a most encouraging outlook given."

In the primary Sheriff Veale received a clear majority over both opponents at Antioch of 116 votes. The vote was Nixon, 108; Reggiardo, 135; Veale, 359.

His friends say they will give him a sweeping majority in the asparagus city on November 7.

POULTRY TIPS

Poultry kept on dairy or general live stock farms should not be allowed to run with cattle, unless the herd has been tested and found free from tuberculosis. Poultry keepers are beginning to realize that if they are to buy healthy birds they must get them from places where the live stock is known to be free from tuberculosis.

Kerosene and linseed oil in a fifty-fifty mixture makes an effective preparation for treating scaly legs and feet, a common trouble among chickens. Dipping the feet and legs twice into this mixture will usually stop the work of the mites that burrow under the scales.

—o—

For the man who is planning to build a poultry house this fall, here are some good points relating to ventilation problems that are worth remember: The Ohio station poultrymen say: "A thousand pounds of hens need 8,278 cubic feet of air a day, while 1,000 pounds of horse use only 3,401 cubic feet of air a day. Hens have to breathe at a furious pace to keep up their high body temperature. Give them air."

Like a Giant Health Officer the watershed lands protect you

THINK OF A MAN so great that he could keep constant and minute vigilance over approximately 42,000 acres of land.

Visualize a giant provided with Nature's most potent purifying agents, together with a profound knowledge of hygienic laws.

Imagine a person so powerful, so all-seeing and so reliable that he would guard you, and every other human in this community from menace, year in and year out, and you will have some conception of what the East Bay Water Company's watershed lands mean to the people of this section.

The beautiful hills back of the Bay cities are of the mightiest importance in safeguarding the health of the citizens. Their surfaces, covered with gravel, earth, grass, trees and foliage, form natural aerators and filters that help to purify the "run-off" waters before they reach the impounding reservoirs of this Company.

To insure the effectiveness of these watershed lands, the East Bay Water Company keeps them well patroled and groomed. Hikers and campers are warned away from the streams. Human habitation is kept at a minimum and is allowed only under the most stringent conditions. Strict rules for sanitation are enforced.

You should be interested in this effort to keep the water you drink pure at its source. Your co-operation is vital for your own self-protection. The watershed lands are responsible, in a great measure, for the purity of the water served by this Company. Remember that.
